

From: ACUS Information nfo@acus.gov
Subject: FW: Comment - a court of patent claims by small entities
Date: August 29, 2022 at 1:41 PM
To: [REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Monday, August 29, 2022 1:15 PM
To: ACUS Information <info@acus.gov>; Kazia Nowacki <knowacki@acus.gov>
Subject: Comment - a court of patent claims by small entities

I am a solo inventor with 78 inventions to date. For a few of the inventions, I was able to start a company to make and sell the products (<https://www.oracoat.com/>). The present system worked well for these inventions.

Others of my inventions are improvements to products that are already offered by several well established companies, making it impractical to start a new company. Making and selling would require too much capital and would infringe too many patents of others. For these inventions, a simpler way to enforce by solo inventors is needed - a court of patent claims by small entities.

Jeff Haley
Patent Lawyer and Inventor

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]